Secretary Daniels Takes Hand

"PLEBES" BADLY INJURED

Discharged Cadet Declares
Naval Academy Is Worse Than Kindergarten.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Rear Admiral Scates, commandant of the United States naval academy at Annapolis, has the hazing situation there in hand, Secretary of the Navy Daniels said today.

"Admiral Scates is as determined to prevent hazing at Annapolis as I am," Daniels said adding that he is trusting the authorities at the school to break up the practice.

Washington—Secretary Daniels today declared he would order expelled from the Annapolis naval academy all midshipmen guilty of hazing no matter how great the number.

Daniels declared until recently the academy had 800 students and now it has 2,200.

"The United States is spending too much money to allow the students to violate rules," Daniels declared.

Daniels refused to comment on the statement of Samuel G. Baker, of Seattle, third year student who was expelled from the academy, beyond saying that some of the young man's statements were true and some were not.

Baker charged discrimination had been shown in meting out punishment and he had been dismissed while others equally guilty had been allowed to resign or given minor punishment. Baker was one of the men to whom was attributed statements that the expulsion of everyone guilty of hazing would force the closing of the academy.

Daniels indicated the details of the discipline of the academy were in the hands of Admiral Scates commander there, and he would not interfere beyond instruction already given that severe measures to repress hazing must be taken.

Baker's assertions have been brought to the attention of Daniels at Washington and he is scrutinizing them today.

Like Kindergarten

Baker, who was expelled from the academy on a hazing charge, today said he defied Daniels or Admiral Scates, commandant of the academy, to disprove his allegations. Baker referred to the naval academy as "worse than a kindergarten."

Every man in it, he asserted, could tell the same story he did if they did not fear dismissal.

Baker said he was dismissed for hazing T. W. Floyd, of Peoria, Ill. who resigned. All other midshipmen resigned after accusing upper classmen of hazing, according to Baker's story. During 1918 and 1919, Baker said, some "plebes" were so hazed they were barely able to walk. Later, he said, two plebes attempted suicide to escape hazing.

North Bayley Daniels, son of the secretary of the navy, was the most frequently hazed member of his class. He resigned after the armistice was signed, Baker said.

Fear Expulsion

Annapolis, Md.—Fear of wholesale expulsions of upper classmen guilty of hazing, caused a feeling of tension and apprehension among the midshipmen at the United States naval academy here today.

The investigation of hazing, it was understood, was being quietly and informally conducted and those believed guilty were being marked for punishment.

Notice served on 62 midshipmen that they must remain in the academy while the navy is playing the army here November 27 and complete the examination of the football players were the developments today.

"It is purely a military matter," one of the disciplinary officers said.

FIFTEEN BOY BANDITS ADMIT MINOR THEFTS

By United Press Leased Wire
Minneapolis, Minn.—An old blanket, painted with a skull and cross bones, hung over the door of the lair of fifteen boy bandits when Police Captain Ed. Bevans trailed the 16 year old leader there.

As Captain Bevans listened he heard the leader exhort his companions as to the details of the "next big job."

The entrance of the officer ended the plans. All were taken to the station. Even the juvenile highwaymen confessed a number of robberies and admitted the money for the rent of their lair was stolen.

They are being held by police.

BANDITS TRY TO WRECK AND HOLD UP TWO TRAINS

By United Press Leased Wire
Denver—Police and railroad detectives today were investigating an attempt made to hold up a Union Pacific passenger train east of here and a later attempt to wreck a Rock Island train on the same track.

The attempt to wreck the Rock Island train was believed to be in revenge for the failure of the holdup.

A brakeman drove off the robbers who attempted the holdup.

Commerce Chamber Will Speed Industrial Survey

Board of Directors of Civic Organization Discusses Many Activities.

The industrial survey of Appleton will be speeded up so it can be finished within the next few days and the information properly compiled. Action along this line was taken by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at its biweekly meeting Tuesday evening in the French room of the Sherman house. Many other matters of a routine nature were up for consideration.

Secretary Corbett's report on the industrial survey showed that several firms had failed to return the questionnaire sent out several weeks ago. It amounted to the survey being held up by a few, as it could not be complete without every Appleton industry making a report.

Speaking about some of the advantages of the survey Mr. Corbett said nothing had attracted so much favorable comment in St. Louis as an industrial survey recently completed there. It was found among other things that 16 factories were making products of which the entire output could be used by other St. Louis plants that were receiving the materials from the east.

Biggest Undertaking

The survey is one of the big undertakings of the chamber and the directors felt that it would be of inestimable value to Appleton. Letters are to be sent out to the firms that have not returned the questionnaires, asking that there be no further delay. The information is kept strictly confidential and the blanks will be destroyed as soon as the figures are compiled as a whole.

The retail trades committee presented its report on the progress of the sales school to be held after the holidays. Secretary Corbett told of the recent Yellowstone Trail meeting at Oshkosh, at which support of the trail was practically assured so it would be retained in Wisconsin.

A request from a sales committee of farmers asking that the chamber find a suitable place for a hog sale to be held in January or February was read to the directors. They expressed themselves as heartily in accord with the sale idea and will do everything possible to find a proper place to hold it.

CHARGE SON AND WIFE KILLED AGED FATHER

Phoenix, Ariz.—Victor Check and his wife, Belle, were to be arraigned in court here today, following their arrest on the report of a coroner's jury that Check's aged father died as a result of "cruel and inhuman treatment" at the hands of his son and his wife.

The elder Check, whose fortune was estimated at $500,000, was found dead Saturday. His body was covered with bruises. At the inquest, neighbors testified he had been beaten until he begged for mercy and they had been awakened at night by his outcries.

Monthy Bulletin

Secretary Corbett announced that the monthly bulletin, "Communism in Retrospect" would be issued the latter part of the week. It is to be a retail edition, dealing with the work and program of the retail trades committee. It was suggested that a "snifter" be enclosed with the bulletin calling attention to the People's Forum meeting.

STORM SWEEPS OVER ATLANTIC COAST STATES

Shipping Is Endangered by Gale

OHIO VALLEY HARD HIT

Trains Are Running Late and Wire Communication Is Demoralized.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Snow, wind storms and rains swept over the United States east of the Mississippi today on the wings of a storm centering over New York City, according to E. H. Bowie, chief United States weather bureau forecaster.

Cold but fair weather will continue for several hours throughout most sections, according to Bowie's general forecast. Ship captains sailing from Atlantic coast ports have been warned to expect gales and heavy weather.

The storms developed in the south and moved north over the coast states and the Ohio valley, bringing snow to that section and in the lower Great Lakes regions.

Snow and rain were predicted for tonight in the lower Great Lakes regions and in the upper Ohio valley. Temperatures tonight will be "lower in the region of the Great Lakes, the upper Ohio valley and the Atlantic states."

Oil Barge Is Grounded

By United Press Leased Wire
Provincetown, Mass.—Navy oil barge No. 13 which broke away from the tug Penacook during a gale last night, came ashore at Gurnet beach, near Plymouth, today.

Although it had been reported that there were five men aboard when the barge broke loose, no men were found by coast guards who examined the craft.

Naval officers at Plymouth announced that the report that five men were aboard was erroneous and that no lives had been lost.

The waves were running high off Cape Cod and the tug was barely able to make port. Other navy tugs set out to the rescue of the barge but were forced back.

Much Property Damage

New York—Ships in the outer harbor of New York dropped additional anchors today to ride out the storm which lashed the coast last night. Heavy rain and wind in New York inflicted considerable property damage. Small craft were endangered.

An S. O. S. was received from the Spanish steamer Yule which left Baltimore for Dunkirk. A coast guard cutter was sent to her assistance. An S. O. S. from the freighter Genia was cancelled later.

Shipping Endangered

Cleveland—Shipping was endangered today in a northeast gale which drove heavy seas against the north Atlantic coast.

Scores of small vessels and boats were driven ashore and water front property was damaged.

Traffic Demoralized

Cleveland—Railroad and electric railway traffic and telephone and telegraph service suffered in Ohio today due to a heavy fall of snow.

The weather observer reported a depth of seven inches of snow in Akron at 9 o'clock.

Trains were from a half hour to two hours behind time and street car service was practically demoralized.

The fall of snow was heavy in Columbus. A foot of snow was reported in Chardon, Ohio. In Cleveland the snow melted quickly and flooded several streets.

In some parts of the state the snow storm reached blizzard proportions.

RIOTING FOLLOWS GREEK ELECTION

Premier Venizelos Will Retire
Even if He Wins at the Polls.

By United Press Leased Wire
Athens—Rioting broke out in front of the foreign office as a result of the national elections.

Many persons including a number of children, were reported killed when the police broke up the rioting which broke out in front of the foreign office as a result of the national elections.

Adherents of King Constantine were blamed for the firing. Regent Condouriotis is said to have refused the resignation of Premier Venizelos until votes from the army have been compiled.

It is believed no matter what the result Venizelos will insist on withdrawing, feeling that the small minority still possible is not a sufficient endorsement.

Venizelos before submitting his resignation, telegraphed the Greek commander in Asia Minor, ordering him to continue operations until further orders are received.

The premier was quoted as saying: "I've done my part for the Greek people and they have condemned my policy. I have retired."

"I have been accused of being a tyrant and I am giving my place to others who will not be tyrants."

CALLS ON HOYLE TO SOLVE THIS PROBLEM

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco—Police Judge McAtee discarded Blackstone today and started to hunt for a copy of Mr. Hoyle's well known book to determine whether five kings beat four natural aces when the joker is wild.

Manuel J. Fernandez, and Miguel Olympius sat down to a friendly little game. Four natural aces smiled in the hand of Olympius. The pot was over $500 when Olympius called and Fernandez showed four natural kings and the joker and grabbed the pot.

Olympius had Fernandez arrested for robbery and the judge continued the case while he paged Mr. Hoyle.

DRIVE ANTI-REDS OUT OF SIBERIA

Japanese Rush Troops to Manchurian Border to Protect Natives.

(By Charles Edward House)
By United Press Leased Wire
Peking, China.—Anti-bolshevist forces in Siberia have been driven across the Manchurian border at Manchuli, according to official Chinese reports today.

Dispatches from Harbin said General Semenov, anti-bolshevist leader, had been routed and that his troops fled in disorder. General Isoma, Japanese commander, was said to have warned the bolshevist troops they must not follow the defeated army.

The Japanese are rushing troops to Manchuli to enforce order. Bolshevist troops have occupied Kiakhta and seized all private property.

Manchuli is the first railway town inside the Manchurian boundary. The Trans-Siberian railway there connects with the Chinese Eastern road. It is 500 miles northwest of Harbin where General Isoma has his headquarters and where the Chinese Eastern road splits, sending one branch to Peking and the other to Vladivostok.

Siberia has been the scene of desultory fighting for many weeks. Resumption of the bolshevist drive there came jointly with the sweeping successes of Red troops in Crimea and renewal of an offensive against Ukraine.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN JAIL

Slaying Husband, Jumps
Down Areaway.

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Mrs. Viola Brinkman who killed her husband, Jack Brinkman, auto salesman, in a local hotel Aug. 12, "to keep him from other women," is suffering from a fractured leg and many bruises today as the result of an attempt to end her life late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Brinkman has been held in the county jail since the shooting, and revelation of a letter by Brinkman, giving his wife the right to "take any action" if he was found with other women, and which has been termed his "death warrant."

The Brinkmans formerly lived in Newark, N. J. Mrs. Brinkman was with other women prisoners on the third floor of the jail ironing. When all but one had left she walked to the railing at the top of a circular stairway leading to an areaway. She cried to the other woman "Goodbye, dear," and hurled herself over the railing.

The force of her fall was so great as to smash a wooden bench on which she alighted. She was unconscious when picked up and rushed to Emory hospital where she pleaded throughout the night with nurses and physicians to end her suffering and let her "join my beloved."

"Please let me die and go to Jack for I know he is waiting for me," she cried.

"I love him so much. Won't you leave me to him?" she pleaded with the nurse who watched over her through the night.

Hospital attaches said today she would recover. She was to have been arraigned in court next week.

San Francisco, Cal.—District Attorney Matthew Brady, of San Francisco, declared today that if the courts should order a new trial for Thomas Mooney, now serving life in the state penitentiary as a result of the preparation of a bomb explosion here in 1916, he probably would move that the case be dismissed and Mooney be freed.

CATCH DRAFT EVADER AFTER LONG SEARCH

Louis Krueger, Sought for Two Years, Arrested in Chippewa Falls.

INVOLVED IN SHOOTING

Man Under Arrest Is Member of Notorious Western Wisconsin Family.

By United Press Leased Wire
Chippewa Falls, Wis.—Louis Krueger, 30, sought as a draft evader for the last two years, was arrested after a chase here today by motorcycle policeman Edward Holtz.

He was one of four brothers involved in the shooting of several members of a posse two years ago when federal agents sought to arrest them as draft evaders.

Krueger was watching a $10,000 fire which destroyed the Valley Tire company plant at 12.30 today when E. J. Crane, formerly of Withee, Wis., recognized him. Crane advised officer Holtz and the latter started for Krueger. Krueger fled down to the river bank and Holtz commanded an automobile. He captured Krueger as he started across the river bridge.

Louis Krueger is alleged by police to have escaped Aug. 18, 1918, when a posse surrounded the Krueger farm home near Withee after federal agents had met resistance in an attempt to arrest the four brothers on charges of evading the draft. Two of the brothers, Leslie and Frank, are now serving time in Waupun prison.

Another brother was killed by the posse when he attempted to escape from the house. The brothers are charged with having killed two of the posse and wounded several others.

Krueger said he has been in Montana most of the time since 1918. He denied that he was at home when the shootings occurred. He said he left Withee in April, 1918, and knew nothing of the fray. He said he had been working on the Montgomery-Ward building in St. Paul all summer and two weeks ago went to a lumber camp north of Ladysmith. He arrived in Chippewa Falls at 10 o'clock this morning, he said, and stopped off to watch the fire.

That number makes it possible to run the junior high school economically without taking children too far from their homes without having the school so big and unwieldy that much of the value of the junior high school program would be lost. Mr. Rasey stated, Appleton can take care of its problem and of course must take care of it, he continued.

In his opening remarks, the speaker reviewed the history of junior high schools. The scientific movement entered the educational field about 100 years ago and gradually led to the desire for efficiency rather than tradition. The first junior high school was established in 1912 and many more sprung up until the war came. The movement was halted then, but very many were started again in 1919.

Rockfield, Ill. had two as experiments, but now has six in its construction program. These schools are shown to be practical and are plentiful in all but the southern states. There were about 800 in operation in 1917, 17 of which were in operation in Wisconsin.

A number of reasons were given by Mr. Rasey for favoring the junior high school. He said a scientific study of education changed the point of emphasis from the subject to be taught to the student to be taught. It was no longer a case of "take it or leave it" with respect to studies. The junior high school made a closer

ALLIES WILL NOT STOP CONSTANTINE

Fear Greeks Will Resent Interference in Their Selection of Ruler.

By United Press Leased Wire
Paris—While newspapers and public men here today were proclaiming that the allies never would permit King Constantine to return to the throne of Greece, it was privately admitted it was extremely unlikely Britain and France would be able to block such a move.

The people of Britain and France would not look with favor on a military enterprise to prevent the Greeks from putting Constantine back in power. It was considered possible the French in an extreme case might send such an expedition to Greece. Through its influence over the National Bank of Greece which contains the nation's finances, the allies could virtually cut off funds from Constantine, but then they would have to reckon with a possible uprising of the Greek people, engaged at foreign interference with their choice of a monarch.

The allies will not consent to King Constantine's return to the Greek throne, Le Matin said today.

The newspaper said they might agree to a compromise on the naming of Prince George, the crown prince, as king.

Official Paris appeared stupefied at the unexpected result of the Greek elections.

Venizelos will not withdraw his resignation although reports from additional provinces today showed he was not hopelessly beaten in the national elections.

Since the premier persisted in his resignation, however, Regent Condouriotis proceeded with efforts to obtain another leader for the cabinet.

WILSON HOPES LEAGUE CAN BE HELP TO WORLD

OPPOSE SECRET MEETINGS

Efforts to Discuss League Affairs in Secret Meet With Opposition.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—President Wilson in a message to Paul Hymans, president of the league of nations assembly, today expressed the hope that the labors of the assembly will be of immense value to the whole civilized world.

The president's message was in reply to one from Hymans in behalf of the assembly "praising Wilson's work toward the establishment of the league."

The president's message follows: "The greetings so graciously sent me by the assembly of the league of nations through you have gratified me very deeply indeed. I am indeed proud to be considered to have played any part in promoting the concord of nations with the establishment of such an instrumentality as the league to whose increasing influence and success I look forward with increasing confidence. Permit me to extend my personal greetings to the assembly, if they will be gracious enough to receive them, together with an expression of my hope and belief that their labors will be of immense value to the whole civilized world."

The message of Hymans to President Wilson follows:

Praise Wilson

"The assembly of the league of nations has by unanimous vote instructed me to send you its warmest greetings and to express its earnest wishes that you may be speedily restored to complete health. The assembly recognizes that you have done perhaps more than any other man to lay the foundations of the league. It feels confident that the present meeting will greatly advance those principles of cooperation between all nations which you have done so much to promote."

Fight Secret Plan

Geneva.—Secret discussion of league of nations affairs was believed far from assured when the assembly opened today's meeting.

Yesterday's decision that the six commissions which will thresh out all questions submitted to the assembly by hold secret on public sessions as the members please, was expected to meet renewed opposition today. The business included reports on the work of the league council which settled many matters before the assembly was called. Those decisions included the Malmady-Eupen plebiscites and the Polish-Lithuanian agreement which latter was shattered.

Many delegates arrived here primed for attacks on the work of the council.

All Sook Positions

There was much jockeying today among delegations hoping to obtain vice presidencies in the assembly for their country.

Britain through her dominions was expected to obtain two with Japan and South America getting one each. Six of these officials will be elected Thursday.

Honorio Puerrydon, Argentine delegate, argued today for the admission of all sovereign states to the league, unless they decline invitations to join.

Kaukauna Pupils Take Up Fight For New High School

Electric City Education Institutions Overcrowded, School Heads Say.

An active campaign by the students of the Kaukauna high school for the erection of a new school building is taking place this week at Kaukauna. The movement is sponsored by L. O. Schussman, superintendent of the Kaukauna public schools.

On Monday, all of the students of the high school and park school participated in a big street parade. They carried banners and placards upon which were printed cleverly arranged pictures and slogans, in an effort to wake the people of Kaukauna to the situation of the schools in their city.

Letters asking for support in the campaign have been sent by Mr. Schussman to all of the lodges, churches and unions in Kaukauna. He offered to furnish four minute speakers so that they could learn the real state of affairs.

Mr. Schussman thinks that if the organizations of Kaukauna can be enlisted in the support of the campaign, it will be easier to put the project before the citizens. So far, only the Women's club and one or two other organizations have answered the letters. The Women's club has always been in favor of the new high school.

183 Students Enrolled
The present enrollment of the high school is 183, said Mr. Schussman, "and the high school was crowded when we had only 125 students. The classrooms also were arranged to accommodate not more than 125 boys and girls."

The high school students share the Park school building with the graded school pupils.

"The first and fifth grades have been removed to the training school in order to make more room for the high school," said Miss Tessie O'Keefe, teacher of citizenship and history. "We have three recitation rooms that really belong to the Park school, and sooner or later they will reclaim them. Both schools are expanding, and it will be the high school that will have to give up to the Park school."

Miss O'Keefe said that the campaign was being conducted in accordance with the state wide better school year. Every school in the state during the week of Nov. 14 to 20, should organize a campaign for the thing that it most needs.

Wants $200,000 School
"What we need most here is a new building," Prof. Schussman said. "The ideal thing would be a high school which would cost about $200,000, and would serve the needs of the city for the next ten years. We have reached the point of highest efficiency under our present conditions, and we must have expansion or we will begin to go backwards."

Mr. Schussman said that the Nicolett school, a graded school, also was becoming too small and that an addition is needed to overcome the congestion there.

Continue Campaign
The campaign will not end with the end of the week. Prof. Schussman said that it would be continued from now until the people of Kaukauna take action. The students, who know the condition are doing much to stir up the spirit of the people. The subject is brought up at every opportunity, newspapers are used to spread the facts, and everywhere the students are trying to make their parents wake up to the educational crisis which confronts Kaukauna.

Those who are interested in the outcome of the campaign say that they are not optimistic. There is too much divided sentiment in the city to accomplish much in the educational line.

Factional Fighting
"Factions on either side of the river are fighting for the establishment of new projects on their own side. They do not consider the welfare of the community," one man said.

"The parochial school on the south side is seriously considering the building of a high school for its students. Already it has installed a ninth grade. In case that the Catholics do build a high school, the building which we now occupy will be big enough to accommodate those who come, but the result is easy to foresee. There will be more division than ever. Two high schools will be pulling away from each other rather than pulling together. A city the size of Kaukauna can handle all of its high school students in one good building."

The law requires that physical culture be taught in schools. Prof. Schussman said: "We have practically no gymnasium space in the present high school building. A good gymnasium would be essential to a new school. The school board seems to be in favor of the project, and as soon as the citizens become interested the question of a bond issue will be taken up."

HIGH COURT HEARS ODD INJURY CASE
Court and Industrial Commission Do Not Agree on Injury Responsibility.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—One of the most unique cases which has come to the Supreme court in years was that of Frank Cayll, et al., vs. the Industrial Commission and Thomas Massino, with the Waukesha Gas & Electric Co., as appellant, which was affirmed by the court Tuesday.

Massino was employed by Cayll, who held a contract with the Gas & Electric company to excavate trenches and refill them after the company had laid its mains. The evidence showed that Cayll in his work was getting ahead of the company and the latter asked Cayll to loan it some men, which was done, Massino being among them. Cayll was working ten hours per day while the company worked but nine and Massino was permitted to work nine hours for the company and one for Cayll so he would lose no wages.

It was shown that in changing from one employer to the other Massino remained on the same job, and there was no evidence to prove that he knew in fact which he was working for. It was shown that he considered Cayll his "boss" at all times, although taking instructions from the foreman for the company.

During the course of his employment, on the company's time, while handling a piece of sewer pipe Massino sustained an injury. The Industrial Commission, admitting the peculiarity of the case, held Cayll, as the employer of Massino and awarded judgment against him in favor of Massino under the Workmen's Compensation act. Cayll appealed the case to the Dane circuit court where Judge E. Ray Stevens held that as Massino was working on the company's job that the company and not Cayll was liable and the supreme court, in an opinion written by Justice Jones, affirms that decision.

Another unusual feature of the case is that Massino, the injured man to whom the award was made, had no interest in the case at issue. There was no question as to the justice of the award nor as to the amount, but merely whether it should be paid by Cayll or the company.

THREE WEEKS' COURSE ON TRACTORS OFFERED
Madison—A three weeks' course in tractor operation and construction is to be given by the college of agriculture here Dec. 13 to 31. The course is said to be only a beginning of an effort to aid Wisconsin tractor owners to realize better returns from their expenditures in power machinery.

Short courses of a few days each are planned for various cities in the state this winter. Localities asking for the instruction will be provided for if there is sufficient demand, it was said.

A wide range of tractors is available for those who enroll for the training.

ALTHOUSE SCORES BIG TRIUMPH HERE

Tenor Soloist Accorded Splendid Reception in First Concert of Season.

Paul Althouse, tenor with the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, gave the 1920-1921 Community Lecture and Artists series a glorious opening when he presented one of the finest recitals ever heard here before.

An audience of more than 1,000 people, the young singer, famous for the lyric quality of his voice, enthralled his immense audience. The crowd was loath to leave the hall after his program was finished and insisted on encore after encore. Very few singers have been accorded the reception which he received here.

His rendition of "Dear Old Pal of Mine," after the fourth number of his program, was one of the especial delights of the evening. Mr. Althouse was the first opera singer to use that song after it was written by a Canadian army officer, singing before a group of soldiers in a Canadian camp.

The singer's perfect enunciation of words added to the charm of his program. Unlike most opera singers, every word which flowed from his lips was distinct and easily understood. His rendition of a group of operatic selections was made more pleasing because of this and the charm of his English songs was enhanced because he was understood.

Harold Simonds, pianist, who assisted Althouse, presented a number of pleasing selections. His "Melodie" by Rachmaninoff, was particularly pleasing.

MOTHER ABANDONS 3-MONTHS OLD BABE

Child, Wrapped in Warm Clothing, Is Found on Porch of St. Mary Convent.

A three-months old girl baby was found on the steps of St. Mary convent, Seventh street, shortly after dark Tuesday evening. The infant was taken in charge by the police and taken to St. Elizabeth hospital for care until disposition of the case is made.

The baby was dressed in warm clothing and was wrapped in two blankets, one comparatively new. A note was pinned to the bundle expressing the hope of the mother that the child would be taken care of, and that in four weeks money would be sent for its care. Three dollars in currency was found with the child. A paper shopping bag containing clothing and a one dollar bill was also laid on the steps.

The police have been unable to find any trace of the child's parents. It appears to be someone that lives outside of Appleton, because a bag was found containing the remains of a lunch that the person had evidently brought from home. Inquiry throughout the neighborhood brought no clew, as no one had seen anybody in the vicinity carrying the bundle containing the child.

FARM AND SHOP ASKS 'STATE 'U' REGENTS

Legislature Will Be Asked to Provide for Reorganization of Regent Board.

Madison—Farmer and labor representation on the board of university and normal regents is recommended by the state board of education in its program to be presented to the legislature when it convenes in January. At least two representatives of labor and two of farmers are asked.

One of the urgent demands on the legislature will be for a reorganization of the regents as suggested in the board of education program, according to friends of the plan. They expect support of the governor in their effort to bring about the proposed change.

Similar plans have been brought before the legislature in previous sessions. During the 1915 meeting a bill was introduced by H. A. Marth, Wausau, which proposed that the board have 12 members, three to represent labor, three business men, three farmers and three members of the faculty of the university.

This proposal, after discussion, was Nearly 4,000 Is Available for Scholarships in State University.

Madison—At least 182 men students of the university will benefit by money scholarships to be awarded by the university Y. M. C. A. through a committee chosen to pass upon the eligibility and needs of applicants, Frederick E. Wolf, secretary of the association, has announced. Awards are being indefinitely postponed on Apr. 9 by a vote of 50 to 29. This year's friends of the proposed change say that it will receive favorable consideration because of the support it is likely to have from the new governor.

made to service men who are residents of the state.
The committee has been receiving and considering applicants for several weeks and will make the awards within a short time, Mr. Wolf said. A total of $3,750 is in the hands of the committee. Distribution will be made, principally upon a basis of need of financial aid, and for this purpose the applicants have been divided into three classes.
The first class consists of men who do not receive either federal or state bonus allotments, the second, those who do not receive aid from home and who have relatives dependent upon them, and the third class are men who get the bonus and also have help from home.
In view of the fact that the sum is small only eight men will receive awards of $100; of the remaining applicants, 35 men who do not get a bonus will be given scholarships of $50. The committee has 24 of the $50 scholarships yet to be given out.

ing next Sunday evening at which city planning will be considered. A letter from the railroad commission, Madison, was read, announcing a hearing at Madison November 19 on an increase in rates by the American Railway Express company, together with a request for change of classification.

An estimate from the retail trades committee was presented, showing about what it would cost the Appleton merchants to install a graded rating service. Two letters from the United States Chamber of Commerce were presented also. One urged a better classification for foreign trade. The directors instructed Secretary Corbett to write to the congressman of the district urging further consideration of this matter by a committee appointed by congress. A letter is to be written to President Wilson and

The chamber will urge that some immediate provision be made to help finance the roads.

Discuss State Chamber

The reasons for and value of a state chamber of commerce were briefly related by Mr. Corbett, who is chairman of a state committee to arrange such an organization for Wisconsin. He quoted from the program of the annual meeting of the Illinois state chamber. It will consider among other things these questions: Discussions on the new state constitution, state police legislation, support of state university, uniform traffic law for Illinois, legislative commission, changes in state laws, service of the state chamber to local bodies, state promotion of city planning, consolidation of influence of local chambers, preventing sale of "bogus" stocks and crystallizing business sentiment.

FORMER APPLETON MAN IS MURDERED

Irvin Kelsey, Who Left Here 15 Years Ago, Slain by Father-in-Law.

Irvin Kelsey of Twin Falls, Idaho, formerly of Appleton and a son of Mrs. H. D. Coulter, who also made her home in Appleton for many years, was killed instantly by his father-in-law, Peter Weidemann, at their home while he was asleep in a chair.

Alva Hinchliff, an uncle of Kelsey, and his wife have just received a letter from Mrs. Coulter announcing the killing but she did not give any details further than that Weidemann fired two shots at her son, either of which would have been fatal. She said the murder was too terrible to write and that she would send a newspaper clipping giving full details, which has not yet been received.

The decedent left Appleton fifteen years ago, going to La Crosse, where he made his home for several years and where he was married. Shortly after his marriage he removed to Twin Falls to which city his wife's father also moved.

Mrs. Coulter has been making her home in Twin Falls for about eight years. Her son was about 35 years of age and his family consisted of his wife and two children. He is also survived by his mother and a brother and sister.

NOW FEELS LIKE OLD SELF AGAIN

Recovery So Remarkable Friends All Talk About Merits of Tanlac

"Every day some of the boys at the plant where I work speak about the wonderful way Tanlac has restored my health," said Henry J. Cook, of 453 Greenfield avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., an employee of the Fabricated Ship Co.

"Ever since childhood I had stomach trouble and about three years ago I had a general breakdown. After eating anything I would have a heavy, tight feeling on account of gas and bloating that would last for hours. There was a awful pressure around my heart and I had severe burnings in my chest and stomach. My nerves were all upset and during the day I would have attacks of dizziness. My kidneys were out of order and I had a dull pain across my back all day long and sometimes in my hips. For months I couldn't sleep more than three or four hours at a time, and I felt like I didn't have strength enough to get up and go to my work, and many a time I ached all over all day long.

"And although I am just on my fourth bottle of Tanlac I am feeling better than I have in the last three years and working every day as hard as anybody. I can eat anything set before me and everything agrees with me perfectly and I never have a sign of any kind of stomach trouble. I have gotten over the nervousness and dizziness altogether and I sleep like a log. My back never pains me at all and my kidneys are in good shape and the pains have about gone from my hips. I have regained all my lost strength and energy and I am just feeling like my old self again.

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John E. Voigt, R. O. Brown, Shiocton, Dr. J. M. Sattler, Bear Creek; H. E. Abend, Dale, R. E. Lowell, Little Chute.

JUNIOR SCHOOL AS PROBLEM SOLUTION

study of the child as an individual and its organization makes it possible to adapt the work to the individual. Proper grouping of children is an important feature.

Transition Period

Speaking of the present system of eight years in the grades and four in the high school, he said there were no good reasons for this system. The loss between the grades and the high school is a place in school life. The child comes out of the ward school at the age of 12 or 14 and finds himself out of place. His opportunities for leadership are crowded out of him.

The students are changing from children to young men and women in the four years of high school period. The greatest number of students are lost between the grades and the first year of high school. The same situation obtains in the ward schools. Pupils of the seventh and eighth grades do not want to mix and play with the little folks.

Steady Aptitudes

The junior high school is so organized that there is a careful study of aptitudes and abilities. Mr. Rasey continued. After the six years of elementary study, the child needs a different kind of school work. The elementary school puts every individual through school with the same line of work. A boy preparing to be a doctor and a boy intending to leave school at the end of the grades both take the same studies. The latter should have had a training that would help him after he left school. The junior high school is one in which parents and teachers make a careful analysis of the individual child's special aptitudes and then choose work in accordance with that study. The primary aim of the old system is graduation. Junior high school students are individual groups given education most worth while. It collects enough pupils under one roof to make the expense of this kind of instruction reasonable.

The speaker contended that the junior high school meets more efficiently than the elementary school the present day aim of education. Education a few years ago was individualistic. Now it is a social aim. Education should train the individual to take his place most efficiently in a concrete social experience. This is the junior high school aims to do. It is especially valuable to those who drop out of school. They are the ones who cause the great problem of radicalism, which would not be the case if they had the proper schooling.

Barren With Tradition

Accomplishment of this idea in the present schools would be difficult. Mr. Rasey stated, because the elementary school was burdened with tradition. It would take 50 years to change it, but this would all be absent from the junior high school.

Students can also be trained along the lines of their vocation in the junior high school. It is not a vocational school, but tells what the student best can do. It is also capable of holding these pupils who are over age and drop out because they realize that they are out of place.

Figures were given by Mr. Rasey showing how low a percentage remains through the entire four years of high school. He quoted from investigations of Thorndike, Ayres and Strayer, showing that a 100 per cent attendance in the seventh grade dwindled to 45, 14 or 22 per cent in the senior high school year. Other figures showed that a 100 per cent enrollment in the freshman year at high school dwindled to 30, 25, or 22 per cent. The aim should be to hold the student if it is possible to do so.

The same scientific study which has resulted in more efficient manufacturing plants with less waste is taking hold of the school situation and trying to turn out a product which will be efficient and avoid the waste of the past.

The Appleton high school enrollment is 40 per cent freshmen; 23 per cent sophomores; 19 per cent juniors and 11 per cent seniors. This problem of elimination must be taken care of.

Mr. Rasey quoted from Thomas H. Briggs, professor of education of the teachers' college, Columbia university. Present data shows that the junior high school had tended to increase enrollment of pupils of the early adolescent age, especially of boys, to retain them longer in school; to bridge the gap between elementary grades and high school; furnish better provision for pupils of varying abilities and needs; and to increase interest, school spirit and community spirit.

"I am interested in a process of education and information so that the people can understand the junior high school," stated Mr. Rasey. "This is not a brief for a junior high school, but is given because we realize that there is not enough information about there is a lot of confusion as to what the junior high school is. School men have been confused themselves, so it is not surprising that others should be. An effort should be made to carry on a campaign of education and information along such lines."

COUNTY BOARD TO FINANCE WORK OF RED CROSS NURSE

county board to the name of Miss Bertha Schultz. Red Cross nurse, was recommended for the appointment of county nurse in the report of the committee on county nurse which was unanimously adopted at the session of the county board Wednesday morning. The committee was instructed to interview the Red Cross in regard to the amount of the appropriation needed for the county nurse and the price of the automobile Miss Schultz is using which is to be purchased by the county and report at this session.

A. G. Brusewitz, highway commissioner for the last seven years, was reelected at the same salary as last year, $3,000. The county superintendent of schools was allowed a stenographer for the entire year instead of six months each year whose salary was fixed at $75 per month.

Among the reports adopted were those of the municipal judge, county treasurer, committee on county library, indigent soldiers, relief committee, and committee on justice and constable accounts.

A committee consisting of E. F. Spohr, C. G. Fallhorn and E. F. Creel was appointed to prepare and present a resolution of condolence in memory of James Nelson, assistant highway commissioner and a former member of the county board.

The greater part of the session Wednesday morning was devoted to a further discussion of the road problem. The prevailing sentiment appeared to be that taxpayers generally should be taken into the confidence of those in charge of the work and that the receipts and expenditures should be given more publicity. In this way there would be no occasion for erroneous reports being in circulation.

The board adjourned until Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The members are guests of Superintendent Thomas Flanagan at the county asylum this afternoon.

DISARMAMENT

Coincident with the submission of the Japanese treaty by President Wilson to the senate, Washington dispatches say that the navy department officially has announced that it is working out and will present to congress an elaborate program for increasing the naval strength of the country. The program, it is said, includes the construction of ten superdreadnaughts and six battle cruisers. It will be recalled that Secretary Daniels last year stated and again reiterated this year the purpose of the government to ask congress for large appropriations for expanding the navy in the event of the United States to become a member of the League of Nations. It was Mr. Daniels' idea that America in that event should have the first navy of the world.

The controversy over Japanese immigration and the attitude of California in the Japanese question as it applies to the Pacific coast are generally regarded as involving serious difficulties with Japan. The more extreme newspapers of the country and the jingo politicians talk about the possibilities of war, and there is no doubt that great pressure will be brought to bear upon congress to commit the government to a policy of radical naval expansion and potential preparations for the possibilities of war.

President-elect Harding in his Armistice Day address at Brownsville seemed to reflect this jingo spirit when he declared his purpose of enforcing American rights in every part of the world and of giving protection to American lives and property in foreign countries whenever they might be put in jeopardy. This forecast of the use of the strong arm of the nation necessarily involves military preparation and readiness.

One of the important purposes and provisions of the League of Nations covenant is that which relates to disarmament. Without disarmament, and a League of Nations guaranteeing protection where armaments are reduced, there is no alternative but to continue the military policies of the past. Great navies will be built and in the race for leadership the United States, with the Monroe doctrine to support and the Japanese problem to contend with, must inevitably keep pace with all other nations, if not in advance of them, in the development of its navy and in its preparation for war. At a time when the financial burdens of the World war are weighing heavily upon every nation, including the United States, the benefits and the desirability of disarmament are apparent. We cannot expect any decrease, but rather only an increase, in the enormous expenses of running the government if we are to have no retrenchment in naval and military appropriations. All of which emphasizes the great importance of carrying through the program initiated at Versailles for enforcing world peace and bringing about gradual disarmament.

WHY CRIME INCREASES

The reasons assigned for the continuing "crime waves," including police inefficiency and the demoralizing effects of war, seem to fail to get at the bottom of the matter. The long-standing and chief direct cause is to be found in the failure of the courts to convict and punish, a failure in part due to a system granting larger rights of protection to the defendant than to endangered society, and in part to the lack of a sound attitude toward crime and criminals on the part of a large proportion of the public. That there is such failure is evident from the following figures:

In 1913 in the city of New York there were 323 homicides, 185 arrests, 80 convictions, and only 10 death sentences. In 1914 in New York City there were 292 homicides, 185 arrests, 68 convictions and only 6 death sentences. In 1917 in the same city there were 236 homicides, 280 arrests, 67 convictions, and only 9 death sentences. In 1918 in New York City there were 221 homicides, 256 arrests, 77 convictions, and only 6 death sentences.

More or less of a parallel for these figures can no doubt be found in the criminal record of every American city and state. So long as there is more than an even chance of escape from conviction, so long as the chances of the maximum penalty, whether death or life imprisonment, are about one in thirty-six, just so long will crime continue to be the excessive menace it is to society today. In Chicago the crime wave has become so great that civic bodies are organizing to put it down. The recent police shake-up there showed a deplorable state of affairs, with gross inefficiency or perversion in the police department in the detection and prevention of crime.

Vicious politics has had a great deal to do with fostering hell-holes of crime in our great cities. Public indifference has not improved matters, neither has lax enforcement of minor statutes. The American people are altogether too much given to disrespect for law. Back of our social and political standards lies the real responsibility for our lamentable crime record. We are not likely to have reform in the latter until we have reform in the former; when we do have this reform we shall find our governmental agencies and our courts the terror to crime they ought to be.

WHAT WILL IT BE?

Men and women suffer. Some are fortunate. They suffer little. Others suffer much, and often. None escape.

Perhaps suffering—mental and physical—is necessary. It hardens the race. Privation and hardship breed stamina. Ease and comfort beget sluggards. No human evasion can circumvent this. The sluggish develops a leaking heart. The pampered lout dies of anaemia. Tuberculosis penetrates the best built wall, and the heaviest tapestry.

Until men and women live by nature's law, they must pay. A few wise men learned this. They lived right, and thought right, and did right. Misadventure was among them. He lived peacefully for several hundred years and in the end, went quietly to sleep. But most men suffer, because they are fools. That is tragedy. They pass their suffering on to little children. That is crime. Children should not suffer. They should grow. Instead they, too, pay.

For a few, the payment is light. Great surgeons relieve them. Skilled nurses soothe them. But the many cannot fare so. Their pain lingers. They struggle on, stunted and stupid and dull. Many die. It takes a lot of money to buy surgery and nursing. Not so many years ago, a few men and women saw this. So they organized, and called themselves the "Red Cross." They made it their purpose to relieve human suffering—particularly the suffering of children.

War came and the Red Cross entered the battlefields. Disaster swept away cities, and the Red Cross followed. But always its nurses returned to the children. They searched them out, in home, and school, and playground. They found the ills that threatened them. They ministered to them, and called in their doctors to prevent what might never be cured. They checked suffering and saved lives. They do it today—every day—the lives of children.

Once each year they seek your help. They tell us that one dollar from each of us will save the lives of children. Even today that dollar will buy several cigars; or tea and chocolate e'clairs. So there are a few who begrudge it. But into most minds comes the picture of a kid on crutches, who smiles. And most minds will sacrifice a hand full of cigars, or tea and e'clairs, for such as these.

As for you: when the Red Cross worker calls, what will it be,—a hand full of cigars; tea and chocolate e'clairs; or the kid on crutches, who smiles?

WEAK EYES AND STRONG EYES

Eyes which are clear and free from redness or congestion are not necessarily strong eyes in the sense of having good vision.

A great many readers ask whether boric acid solution or some other medication applied to the eyes will "strengthen" the eyes.

Boric (formerly called boracic) acid dissolved in water freshly boiled, say about half an ounce in a pint of boiled water, makes an antiseptic and comparatively non-irritating solution for bathing the eyes or dropping in the eyes, provided there is need for an antiseptic. In many acute inflammations of the eyes or eyelids or rather the lining of the eyelids, here is need for an antiseptic and the boric acid solution may be freely and frequently applied for days or weeks in such cases, with benefit and comfort. But it is futile to apply antiseptics to the eyes over prolonged periods, and, in my judgment, even boric acid solution should not be used for more than a few weeks, unless by direction of the oculist.

It is unnecessary and inadvisable to apply any drops or wash to the eye habitually or daily. If there is foreign matter in the eye or under the eyelid it may be washed out by gently pouring over the eyeball, while the eye is held open. A comfortably warm solution of a heaping teaspoonful of common salt in a pint of boiled water from a spoon or from a blunt medicine dropper. The purpose of the salt is simply to render the liquid about the same saltiness as the tears and hence non-irritating. Plain water smartens the eyes, whereas this "normal solution" does not. The salt has no medicinal virtue aside from this.

Many solutions are marked "under extravagant claims for strengthening the eyes. Then, too, there is an absurd notion that eyesight may be strengthened or the eyes may be strengthened (in appearance) by certain exercises. I am a great believer in exercise as a remedy, when exercise is intelligently employed. I can assure the reader that there can be no more valuable exercise for the eyes than reading, looking at things, and—yes, yes, looking at things easy to look at, beautiful things, I mean, natural or human, if you follow me.

In various nasal troubles, such as overgrowth or thickening of the lining of the nose or of the turbinate bodies of the nasal chambers, the eyes are likely to be red or congested. In inflammations or infections of the air spaces (sinuses) of the skull, the eyes are often affected, in looks as well as in function. A great many individuals have low grade chronic inflammation of the lining of the eyelids which cause redness of the eyes. Finally, defects of vision producing eyestrain may cause redness of the eyes. It is idle to think of "strengthening" such eyes—the individual trouble must be remedied in each case.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Eczema About the Nostrils

Our son, aged nine years, is troubled considerably with a kind of eczema about the edges of the nostrils. Has diet anything to do with such a condition? He eats a great deal of candy and sweets. (Mrs. W. H.)

ANSWER—More likely there is some abnormal condition within the nose requiring treatment. Wicks of gauze saturated with this ointment may be inserted in the nostrils at night:

Ichthyol 1 dram
Lanolin 4 drams
Petrolatum 3 drams

Kidney Stones

An X-ray examination showed that I have two stones in the left kidney. Please advise me about having an operation. Can one live with only one kidney? Is this the trouble commonly called gallstones? (Mrs. C. R.)

ANSWER—Stones in the kidney is very different from gallstones (stones in the gallbladder). I know of no effective remedy other than operation. The kidney is not necessarily removed—the stones are removed. I know several persons who have lived and remained well for many years after removal of one kidney.

Fewer Farms.

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—While the population of the United States has increased 10 per cent or more during the last 10 years, the number of farms in the country has barely increased at all—only 1.4 per cent, to be exact.

This fact, that the amount of land which is being cultivated is not increasing as fast as is the population, has been pointed out before, but it is interesting to note that the census officially confirms it, and also to note just where the increases and decreases lie. It also seems especially pertinent to set forth these facts right now. Neither of the major parties seems to be taking very much account of them.

The appointment of a "real dirt farmer" for Secretary of Agriculture has been put forward by the politicians as a remedy. Legislation has also been recommended, and will probably be passed, allowing farmers to organize for purposes of selling and buying. Nothing more is heard of the project which was put forward so vigorously during the war, for the Government to create more farms out of swamps, stumplands, and deserts.

Meantime, there is every prospect that unless something is done, our facilities for producing food will soon fall far below our needs. In 1900 it was found that the number of farms had increased about 10 per cent in 10 years, which probably meant that the amount of land cultivated was increasing about as fast as the population. This year the number of farms only increased about a sixth as much as the number of people. The next census may well show a decrease in the number of farms, unless something is done in the meantime.

Why Men Won't Farm

It has been widely stated and implied that the reason for the dwindling number of farms in this country and for the tendency of the food supply not to increase as fast as the population, is found in the unwillingness of the young men to go on the farms or to stay there. This, no doubt is the reason. But the implication is that they spurn the farms, not because farming is unprofitable, but because they prefer bright lights, moving pictures and all the other things that temptments of our modern civilization.

Representatives of farmer organizations say this is not so. They say that the country is full of men who are not merely willing but anxious to farm, if only they can make a good living at it. They say that this is often impossible, except where the land is rich, transportation facilities of the best, and all other circumstances favorable. They say, further, that it is very hard for the man who wants to farm to get a farm. Farms are held at very high prices in this country, many thousands of acres of them being idle. To buy unimproved land and to put it under cultivation is simply not a paying proposition, it is said, except on a large scale, and not always then. In other words, the man who has or can borrow a few thousand dollars cannot profitably invest it in farmland, and that is one very good if not all-sufficient reason why the number of farms has not increased.

What Figures Show

This view of the matter seems to be sustained in a way by the census figures. They show the increase or decrease in the number of farms in each state. These figures prove that the number of farms is decreasing in nearly all of the northeastern states, and in many of the southern and Middle Atlantic states, and that it is increasing, in some parts very rapidly, in the West.

Q. Is the $10 passport fee imposed by Act of Congress, or by a ruling of the State Department? F. J. S.

A. The State Department says that the $10 passport fee is provided for by an Act of Congress, which originated in that body.

Q. What is the difference between "perspire" and "transpire"? M. E. R.

A. In physiology, the two words have a similar meaning, in fact "perspire" is given as a synonym for "transpire." The term "perspire" is applied to human beings, whereas "transpire" is used mainly in reference to plants. To "perspire" is to exude a fluid water through the pores of the skin, to "transpire" is to exhale water vapor, as from the tissues of plants.

Q. What is the coldest time of night? Is this time colder in the country than in the city? G. E. T.

A. The Weather Bureau says that the coldest time in the 24 hours is just before sunrise. This time is usually colder in the country, owing to the absence of buildings, pavements, smoke, etc.

Q. How old was George Washington when he became President? Were his parents American? A. A.

A. Our first President was 57 years of age when he took the oath of office. His parents were born in America. George Washington, great-grandfather of George Washington, was born in England.

Q. What is the origin of the term Indian Summer? M. L. F.

A. There has been considerable difference of opinion regarding the origin of the term Indian Summer. One of the most plausible explanations is as follows: During the Indian Wars, the attacks of the Indians on the pioneers abated considerably during the winter months, and they accordingly felt reasonably safe when winter once set in. Then when there were two or three weeks of very mild weather following the first cold spells, the Indians had another opportunity to make an attack.

Q. How can black walnut stains be removed? D. L. R.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that concentrated soap solution,

Of course, one would expect to find the greatest increase in the West, where there are still public lands and relatively sparse population. Even so, the rapid increase in the West would certainly show that men are willing to farm where they can get hold of land and farm it at a profit. And the positive decrease in the East would surely seem to prove that men are being discouraged in that section.

The western states which show an increase in the number of farms are Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Texas, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming, that is, practically all of the far western states except New Mexico.

Of the southern states, increases are shown by Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. But the increases in these states are much smaller on an average than those in the western states.

All of the other states show decreases in the number of farms. This means not only that the number of farms in New England and the Northeast generally is decreasing, but that the number of farms in the Middle West, the traditional granary of America, is decreasing. The West, then, is doing more than its share to feed America. The South is doing much, but the average increase in that section scarcely keeps up with the increase of population. The Middle West and the Northeast are steadily falling behind in food production. They are looking more and more to the West to feed them.

Why West Leads

What then are the conditions which have kept the West in a state of growing agricultural productivity when the rest of the country has become decadent in that respect? No doubt the rich young soil of the region is one reason. No doubt another reason is that there are fewer industrial plants to attract men to the cities.

Neither of these conditions can be artificially altered, of course. The West is inevitably the more productive part of the country, and its prime business is food production, while the East is given more and more to manufacture.

But rich soil and room are not the only favorable conditions which account for the increase in the West.

In the West there are both state and Federal reclamation projects upon which a man can get good land for reasonable prices on long time credit. And state laws in the West are far more favorable to the farmer than in most eastern states. Those who are inclined to decry the Non-Partisan League which enables farmers to own their own grain elevators and otherwise to exercise much control over the marketing of their products, may be interested to know that in North Dakota, its home and point of origin, the number of farms increased 4.5 per cent, while in Minnesota, where its has headquarters, the number of farms increased 14.4 per cent.

The Northwest in general is the section of the country where the farmers are most progressive and most successful in getting the legislation they want and in cooperative movements. And all of the Northwestern states show large increases in the number of farms. Montana leads them with an increase of 119 per cent. Oregon shows an increase of 10.3 per cent and Washington of 18 per cent.

prepared by shaving about one cubic inch of laundry soap into one pint of hot water, will remove fresh stains from cotton and linen, if they are boiled in it. If the stain is old, use Jiffie water diluted with equal parts of hot water. Soak stain for 1½ hours in solution, rinse thoroughly, treat with diluted oxalic acid, and rinse again.

Q. Why is the walking fern so named? E. A. B.

A. The most interesting characteristic of this species is found in the way in which the fronds arch over until they touch the earth where they root and form new plants. Some of our other ferns occasionally produce plants in this way, but in this species it is a regular habit. The new plants grow up, repeating the process of walking, and soon the original plant is surrounded by quite a colony of its own offspring without the intervention of spores. The connections between them are slow to die, and it is not unusual to see three or four generations linked together.

Q. I run a machine that has a belt that slips a great deal. What should be done? W. M. B.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that there are a number of belt dressings on the market which will reduce the slipping somewhat. However, if the belt slips, it is an indication that it is being called upon to carry more power than it was intended to carry. A wider belt may be needed.

Q. How much is a quart in cubic inches? W. J. L.

A. A liquid quart is equal to 57.7 cubic inches.

Q. How can goods be tested for wearing qualities? G. A. R.

A. The thumb test will help to determine strength and weaving quality. The fabric is held between the forefingers and thumbs while the knuckles of both hands are facing each other. With the cloth held firmly, the knuckles should be forced together, causing a heavy strain on the fabric. Its strength will be shown by the ease or the difficulty with which it tears.

Who all's interested in Sweater Coats?

$5 to $15

It's hard to talk about such warm propositions right out here in cold print. It would be harder tho' if the coats were not all wool and fast color for then we'd have nothing to say, which would be indeed very unusual for us.

These sweaters are just the kind of coats that you like—they are strictly, purely and wholly wool and will not stretch out of shape unless it's to accommodate yours.

The colors are plain and combinations—almost as many of the latter as you could find on a pool table, and you can have any weight you want.

Stocking Caps too—and warm woolen gloves—Cashmere Hose and everything else that goes with weather like we had yesterday.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

There are some vegetables that are easily spoiled in the cooking by the innocent addition of salt at the wrong time. For instance, if fresh corn is cooked in what is known as boiling salted water the kernels are made tough. If the salt is added when the corn is half done the flavor is just as good and the vegetable is not toughened.

This rule applies especially to the root vegetables coming in season now. Turnips can be salted and peppered when the butter is added. Beets, carrots, onions, parsnips, and even potatoes have a different flavor if the salt is added when the vegetable is half done or is being prepared for the table.

Menu for Tomorrow

BREAKFAST—Halves of grapefruit, salt mackerel, baking powder biscuits, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Carrots in turnip cups, hot rolls, preserves, tea.

DINNER—Cream of chestnut soup, roast beef, mashed potatoes, hot French slaw, blushing apples with orange sauce, coffee.

My Own Recipes

Roasts are always the cheapest cuts of meat to buy. If a roast is too much for one meal there are plenty of ways of using up the left-over meat. Steaks and chops are higher in price, contain more waste and don't seem as "filling."

CARROTS IN TURNIP CUPS

4 medium-sized turnips
4 carrots
1 cup white sauce

Pare turnips and pare smoothly. With a grapefruit knife cut out the center of each turnip. Cook in boiling water till tender. Put a little butter in each case and fill with the carrots which have been diced, cooked and mixed with white sauce. Put in the oven for a few minutes to be sure the dish is hot and serve at once.

CREAM OF CHESTNUT SOUP

1 pint chestnuts
1-4 cup butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup cream

Salt and pepper

Cook nuts for 15 minutes. Shell and blanch. Cook in water to cover till tender. Add water as needed. Press through a sieve. Add salt and pepper and set on back of range to keep hot. Melt butter, stir in flour. Add milk and cream, stirring constantly. Add to broth and stir and cook until the soup boils up once. Serve at once.

LOST $5,000 RING IN TAXI HOLD-UP

Oshkosh Man Says the Attack on Him in Kansas City Was Work of Amateur.

Oshkosh—W. E. Pollock has returned from Kansas City, where he was called by the injury of his brother, David G. Pollock, shot in a holdup in a taxi cab. David G. Pollock came with him.

Mr. Pollock had slipped from his finger a diamond ring valued at more than $5,000 and dropped it behind the cushion of the back seat which he occupied. By the use of a flashlight one of the bandits found it readily and in addition to being injured, Mr. Pollock mourns the loss of a valuable piece of jewelry.

W. E. Pollock states that a cleanup in Kansas City is expected under the

RACINE PLANT RUNNING ON OPEN SHOP BASIS

Racine, Wis.—After having been closed for four months on account of a strike of union employees, the plant of the Hamilton-Beach Co. opened on Monday morning as an open shop concern. One hundred and fifty went to work and 700 more, who have applied for work, will be taken back within the week.

Union pickets around the plant attempted to dissuade the men from returning to work, but the police had men on the job early and no trouble resulted.

The wound indicates that the hold-up was the work of amateurs. David Pollock said he received no command to hold up his hands, but immediately the revolver was pointed at him it was discharged. That fact is believed to indicate that a novice held the weapon and that it was discharged by accident.

The bullet entered Mr. Pollock's chest almost in the center, and plowed through the flesh upward to a point just below the left collar bone.

The holdup occurred in a dark part of the city. The first order of the highwaymen to the driver of the taxi cab was that he should extinguish his lights. Therefore, Mr. Pollock was unable to identify any of the suspects taken by the police, except the driver of the taxi cab. That man was released after a day or two on $500 bonds and finally was released altogether, but upon insistent demand of the Pollock brothers and their friends, he was taken a second time and placed under $5,000 bonds.

PACINI'S FATHER ATTACKS PRISONER

Thrilling Scene in Kenosha Court When Father Accuses Alleged Slayer.

Kenosha, Wis.—Cherubino Pacini, the gray haired father of Charles Pacini, for whose murder Frank Lang is now on trial in the Circuit court of Kenosha county, made an attempt to attack Lang in the courtroom late Tuesday afternoon.

The thrilling scene came during a short recess called by the court shortly after four o'clock.

Attack During Recess
"You're the man that killed my son and I'll get you," shouted the dead theatre man's father as he lurched across the railing leading to the inner channel of the room and rushed towards the table at which Lang was sitting. A newspaper reporter jumped between Lang and Pacini and prevented them from meeting. The police officers, who had been called to the court room to testify, hurried to take charge of the elder Pacini and rushed him from the court room.

The aged father of the murdered theatre man was unarmed and probably would have been unable to do any violence. He was later allowed to return to the court room but was warned not to make any further attempts to wreak vengeance on the man whom he believes to be the murderer of his son.

Is Regular Spectator
Cherubino Pacini has been a regular spectator at the trial and has often been greatly affected as the story of the shooting of his son was repeated. The jury was not in the jury box when the incident happened and know nothing of it.

Prospects loomed up Tuesday night that the fate of Lang might be with the jury Wednesday evening. The state continued all day to introduce police officers in their rebuttal testimony but declared that they would be able to complete this early Wednesday morning.

PRISONER LEAPS FROM MOVING TRAIN, CAUGHT

Superior.—Roy McDonald, 23, who escaped from a sheriff by leaping from the window of a speeding train, was arrested here when he visited friends in the county jail.

McDonald escaped from a sheriff while being taken from Madison to Ashland, where he was to have appeared before Judge G. N. Risjord for breaking his parole.

According to his story, McDonald asked permission to visit the lavatory on the train after leaving Madison with the sheriff. He had been handcuffed, but his request was granted and one of his hands freed. He entered the lavatory, and opening a small window, leaped out. The train was travelling at a high rate of speed.

Together with eight other Ashland men, McDonald is alleged to have entered clothing houses in that city. All of the men were later paroled by Judge Risjord.

Washing Machine Owners!

Get AJAX NAPHTHA CHIPS and make your machine efficient

AJAX, as far as we know, is the first and only soap in flake form which contains Naphtha. Its special cleansing qualities combine with those of Olive Oil to produce the supremely efficient cleanser.

We have perfected Ajax Naphtha Chips only after long experiment—of exhaustive tests—of analysis of all the leading laundry soaps and flakes.

We have perfected them for a special purpose. Ajax Naphtha Chips are intended for use in washing machines. We offer them to washing machine owners as the ideal soap, both in form and ingredient—the cleanser which makes their machines thoroughly efficient.

Pure Soap

Ajax Naphtha Chips are pure soap. They contain no adulterants or impurities.

Because they are all soap and pure soap, they go farther than other kinds. Their use is an economy.

Ajax Naphtha Chips take their color from the rich, crude Olive Oil used as one of the main ingredients.

Olive Oil soap keeps clothes fresh and soft, preserves their newness.

For this reason it is used in woolen mills and by lace manufacturers.

No Soaking—No Rubbing—No Boiling

Use Ajax Naphtha Chips and you needn't soak your clothes unless they are unusually dirty. You won't have to rub them. They won't require boiling.

The Naphtha dissolves all dirt and stain from the average soiled clothes without outside aid.

Ajax Naphtha Chips are extra thin, with a special curly twist. This keeps them from packing or matting and allows the water to penetrate and dissolve every particle, making an extra stiff, profuse, lasting lather which stands up until you are through.

Ajax Naphtha Chips come in a special economy package, containing five times as much as most packages.

Don't let another wash day pass without a package. Let Ajax and your washing machine do all the work.

High School Seniors Plan "Auction" To Aid City Poor

Unique Event Is to Be Held at High School Next Wednesday Afternoon.

One of the most unique events of the school year is to be staged at the high school Wednesday afternoon, November 24, when the first annual "Senior Auction" is to be held. This feature is popular in many high schools and it is hoped to make it one of the biggest events of the school year in Appleton.

Money raised in this manner is to be used to fill Thanksgiving baskets for the poor. Hundreds of articles, donated by pupils, business men and interested people will be offered for sale by auctioneers who will be appointed later in the week. Candy, nuts, doughnuts, Kewpie dolls, "white elephants" of all sorts will be "knocked down" to the highest bidder in real auction fashion. The event has many possibilities, not only from a financial angle but viewed from the standpoint of social relationship.

All the pupils of the school will be present and the public is also invited. As there will be quantities of candy and things of that kind to sell it will be impossible to put them up for sale one by one. To facilitate matters the students will be organized into pools with a bidder who will make all the purchases for the members of that pool, each member having contributed a certain sum. It is expected that many organizations of the city, also will send representatives who will take part in the bidding.

The real importance of the auction idea, however, lies in the social training which the members of the senior class obtain from it. The purpose is to raise money to be used in the purchase of supplies to be distributed to needy families in the city. The families will be chosen in cooperation with the City Relief Society to prevent duplication of effort. The supplies will include not only staple food stuffs, but where they are needed, articles of clothing, which will be put up in baskets and delivered on Thanksgiving morning by the members of the fourth year class.

All the products sold will be donated. Every pupil in the school will make some contribution and several of the merchants of the city have either made contributions or have signified their intention of doing so.

There is every reason to believe that the Appleton High School will inaugurate this practical civic project which should very soon become one of the feature events in the community life.

SEAL CAMPAIGN TO START NEXT WEEK

Woman's Club Outlines Plans for Selling 150,000 Red Cross Seals Here.

Sale of Red Cross Christmas seals will be started Thanksgiving day, but not before that date, it was announced at the regular meeting of the public health department of the Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon at the Woman's Club rooms. Two grand prizes are offered to the two school rooms selling the largest number of stamps. Mrs. George Wetengel, chairman of the department, appointed a committee consisting of Miss Jean Jackson, Mrs. F. L. Colvin and Mrs. Paul Hackbert to select the prizes.

The public health department will be assisted in the sale by the D-E-F division of the Woman's Club. Mrs. Wetengel appointed ward chairmen as follows: Mrs. H. J. Ingold, First ward; Mrs. N. P. Mills, Second ward; Mrs. A. G. Meating, Third ward; and Mrs. A. G. Tankham, Fourth ward. Chairmen for the remaining wards will be appointed in a few days.

Mrs. Wetengel said that Appleton's quota would be 150,000 stamps. Last year a total of 100,000 stamps was disposed of in this city. She added that some towns much smaller than Appleton had much higher per capita sales. One small place had a record of 23 per capita. Mrs. Wetengel urged that a supreme effort be made to reach the quota this year.

Cincinnati. — This is introducing Warren G. Harding Fisher of Cincinnati, first baby of the land to be named in honor of our new president. This nine-and-one-half pound youngster came to Mrs. Viola Fisher on the eve of Harding's election. A name had previously been selected for the youngster but the birthday of the youngster coming on the same day as that of the president-elect, all plans were swept aside in favor of naming him after the president-to-be.

AUTO BODY WORKS PLANT IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Damage to the amount of $200 was caused by fire which broke out in the boiler room of the Auto Body Works plant about 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. It is believed that sparks or combustion from the boiler caused a blaze to start in the shaving bin. The night watchman stoked the fire and went home to supper and it was during his absence that it started.

The flames worked their way up a partition toward the dry film overhead, burning a small portion of the roof and setting fire to a pile of slabs outside. The fact that the boiler room is fireproof prevented the flames from making much headway before the fire department arrived.

Secretary of W. C. T. U. Lauds Famous Kozac

One of the best known and highly respected residents of Sheboygan, Mrs. Edwin Town, 1307 N. 10th st., correspondent secretary of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in a signed statement, joins the hundreds of other grateful local people in testifying in behalf of Kozac.

In her own words, Mrs. Town says: "For sometime I have been troubled with catarrh of the stomach and a sluggish liver. I was subject to dreadful nervous headaches. My appetite was very poor and I had little desire for food. I had to be very particular as to what I ate because of the disagreeable after effects. At times my nose would bleed. My nerves gave me a great deal of trouble and it seemed that whenever I went out side my head would feel congested.

regarding a party who had suffered as I did and got relief from taking Kozac I decided to try a bottle.

"As a result of taking only one bottle of Kozac I have acquired an excellent appetite. I sleep soundly at night and get up feeling rested—you see Kozac has quieted my nerves. I am entirely satisfied that Kozac is an exceptionally fine remedy and I recommend it to all my friends who suffer as I did."

I am commenting upon Mrs. Town's case, the Kozac Man, who is now moving the public daily and evenings at Schmitz Bros. Drug store. College Ave. and Oneida st., said: "Men and women of unquestioned honesty and integrity testify to Kozac's merits daily. Kozac not only gives you renewed energy, brightens your spirits and increases your strength, but seems to quickly overcome stomach, kidney, liver and catarrhal affections when all else has failed."

TUSCANIA VICTIM IS BURIED IN NEENAH

Funeral services for James P. Hawley, son of Mrs. Kathryn Hawley, Neenah, who drowned when the Tuscania was sunk off the English coast during the late war, were held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon from St. Patrick's church.

The young hero was given a military burial, the members of the James P. Hawley Post of the American Legion attending in a body. A firing squad selected from the ranks of Company "I" fired a salute, as the body was laid to rest, while the bugler sounded last "taps."

Several Appleton young men were on the Tuscania when it was torpedoed but all were rescued.

INFERIOR CATTLE FLOODING MARKET

Frightened Farmers Force Down Prices by Selling Underweight Stock.

Chicago—Half fed, inferior grade cattle were being rushed to the Chicago stockyards from all parts of the country by panic stricken farmers, causing demoralization of the cattle market, according to Albert Baker, head of the United States bureau of markets, here today.

Baker appealed to farmers to stem the tide.

Farmers, Baker said, have become panicky because of timidity over future livestock prices and are unloading underweight stock on the market which has caused wide breaks in prices.

It was estimated that there were close to 65,000 cattle in the stockyards at the opening today. This is the largest number in two years.

Cattle prices broke and stock sold for $1 lower yesterday than the previous day's close and from $2.50 to $3 cheaper than two weeks ago. Prices yesterday ranged from $7.50 to $12.50 with the prospect today that prices would be cheaper.

Cattle prices are cheaper now than any time since 1918.

REFUGEES' FATE WORRIES EUROPE

French Threaten Reprisals if Red Troops Injure Civilian Population.

Constantinople—The fate of thousands of civilians left in Sebastopol in the bolshevik triumph worried the European diplomats here today.

General Wrangel arrived here late yesterday with nearly 20,000 troops. He had no plans to announce.

French representatives confirmed reports that they had threatened Red authorities with reprisals if harm came to the civilians.

Military evacuation of the entire Crimean peninsula was complete today but thousands of civilians were left in Yalta, Theodessa and other cities.

Soup kitchens have been installed here to provide food for the most needy refugees. Military barracks belonging to the French army were filled with homeless men and women arriving from Sebastopol.

The military neatness of the barracks was upset by the visitors whose var-colored bundles strewed the floor. Refugees lolled about the narrow streets despairing.

There was fear among those who escaped the Red troops, intoxicated by their success, would break away from the restraint of their commanders and pillage the ancient towns in which priceless goods remained.

MUST TAKE LOSS TO GET RID OF SHIPS

Badger Tells Shipping Board That Government Cannot Get Back Costs.

(By Harold D. Jacobus)

New York—"To get rid of the great merchant fleet which is still operating at a loss, the government must do what it is asking everybody else to do, reduce prices," the congressional committee investigating the United States shipping board, was told today by Martin J. Gillen, of Racine, Wis., expert corporation reorganizer and former special assistant chairman of the board.

Gillen declared the market price of tonnage had decreased to such an extent the fleet of 1,300 vessels which represented an original investment of $2,400,000,000 already had depreciated in value $2,000,000,000 even at the price the government now holds them at and which it cannot get.

"The good ships now on hand cost the government an average of $220 a deadweight ton," Gillen said.

"The government is now asking about $150 but the road market price has dropped to $124."

"There is no ready market for these ships now but there was back in December if the government had dropped the price to $130 or $140 a ton. At that price they could have disposed of about 600 boats, most of which are now being operated at a loss. But the government held for $185. If shipping concerns had bought these ships then at $185 they would have all gone broke, just as the few concerns which did buy ships from the government at top prices are all now in financial difficulties."

BARBER EXPLAINS GAME LAW CHANGES

Proposed Laws Will Require All Hunters to Report Season's Killing.

Stevens Point—W. E. Barber, head of the Wisconsin Conservation commission and chairman of the International Conservation Commission of North America, in an address before more than three hundred sportsmen here, outlined the following changes which the commission will ask the coming legislature to make.

1. Open season for beavers in ten northern counties for two months beginning Feb. 1, as these animals are becoming so plentiful as to overrun the country.

2. Increasing minimum size that muskellunge may be lawfully caught from twenty-four inches to eight or ten pounds. These fish, termed the greatest game fish in Wisconsin by Mr. Barber, are becoming scarce.

3. Requiring every hunter to report his kill of game at the end of the season, that the commission may compile statistics from which it will be able to determine whether the game is becoming more scarce or more plentiful, to make it unlawful to troll for fish behind motor boats.

4. Advancing the open season for deer hunting from Nov. 20 to 30 to the period Nov. 10 to 20.

5. Opening the season for bird hunting either for nine consecutive days or on consecutive weekends, covering six days in all. Mr. Barber explained that 160,000 hunters are now licensed in Wisconsin and in view of that great number, recommended a bag limit of three birds a day.

6. Opening the season for certain kinds of game fish on Memorial day instead of on June 1.

7. Reducing the bag limit on trout on a single day's catch from 35 to 25.

HARDING STARTS TRIP TO PANAMA

President-Elect Is Trying to Dodge Speeches Enroute to New Orleans.

(By Raymond Clapper)

With President-elect Harding enroute to New Orleans—The Harding special carrying the president-elect and his party left Brownsville at 10 o'clock this morning for New Orleans to embark for a 10 day cruise to the Panama canal zone.

The special travels today over the plains of Texas skirting the gulf.

A few rear platform speeches will be made although Senator Harding is holding the number to rock bottom, so as to get the most relaxation possible. Arriving at New Orleans tomorrow, Harding goes to the chamber of commerce for a luncheon speech and an overflow talk later.

His boat leaves at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Some members of Harding's party divided their time between the president-elect and the ancient Mexican city of Matamoros, which lies just across the Rio Grande.

There was a general feeling that the jinx brought an untimely end to the Point Isabel expedition had been left behind for the weather began to clear immediately after arrival in Brownsville.

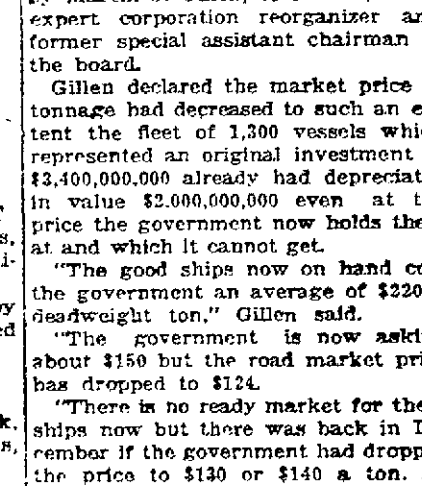

Columbus, Ohio—Five Ohio State co-eds who "bummed" their way to the football game in Chicago Oct. 30 have been expelled from school and banished from the university campus until after the Thanksgiving vacation, it was announced today. In addition to the suspension, the girls must "rake up" the fare and berth money which they beat the railroad out of on the Chicago trip. The money will be placed in the university student loan fund.

When Food Doesn't Digest

Give the Stomach a Rational Rest by Proper Aid, Not by Harsh Starvation Methods. Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

A sour stomach may indicate an acid condition that calls for an alkaline effect.

This you will get from one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after a meal. Sour risings, gasiness, a heavy bloated feeling and such distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia are usually only temporary. And yet they may lead to serious disorder. The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals reflects to a high degree the intelligent selection of preventive measures.

One cannot always select or inspect the quality of food to be eaten nor its method or manner of preparation. But it is possible to avoid the acidity that is so often the result. And it is a far better plan to eat without worry over what may happen, than to starve for fear it will happen. Many physicians recommend these tablets for stomach distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia.

They are sold by all druggists everywhere at 60 cents a box.

ARREST 3 MEN IN ACTRESS' DEATHS

Sordid Story Is Told When Police Arrest Men Last With Girls.

Chicago—The third arrest in connection with the deaths of Lillian Thompson and Mary Rhodes in Grant park following a night of revelry, was made by police today. Lawrence Jorgenson, a sailor, was taken into custody at the Great Lakes naval training station.

Jorgenson was said to have been a member of the party which visited the cabarets before the girls were left to freeze to death while in a drunken stupor. Jorgenson was named by his brother, Harris, and Marcus Brumberg, who are also held.

The fourth man in the auto party, was sought today. He was said to be Cook James McCarthy on the steamer Edward J. Loomis, which left this port for Buffalo Saturday night.

Their deaths resulted from alcohol and exposure, officials believed.

Police arrested three men who, they said, confessed that they had taken the women on a "joy ride" Saturday night.

The women, the men said, were drunk when they picked them up. They were unable to stand and had to be helped into the car. They were put out of the car in Grant park when they became too boisterous, the men said. The police were holding the men today but Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes said their story was undoubtedly true and they probably would be released.

HARDING STARTS TRIP TO PANAMA

President-Elect Is Trying to Dodge Speeches Enroute to New Orleans.

(By Raymond Clapper)

With President-elect Harding enroute to New Orleans—The Harding special carrying the president-elect and his party left Brownsville at 10 o'clock this morning for New Orleans to embark for a 10 day cruise to the Panama canal zone.

The special travels today over the plains of Texas skirting the gulf.

A few rear platform speeches will be made although Senator Harding is holding the number to rock bottom, so as to get the most relaxation possible. Arriving at New Orleans tomorrow, Harding goes to the chamber of commerce for a luncheon speech and an overflow talk later.

His boat leaves at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Some members of Harding's party divided their time between the president-elect and the ancient Mexican city of Matamoros, which lies just across the Rio Grande.

There was a general feeling that the jinx brought an untimely end to the Point Isabel expedition had been left behind for the weather began to clear immediately after arrival in Brownsville.

Columbus, Ohio—Five Ohio State co-eds who "bummed" their way to the football game in Chicago Oct. 30 have been expelled from school and banished from the university campus until after the Thanksgiving vacation, it was announced today. In addition to the suspension, the girls must "rake up" the fare and berth money which they beat the railroad out of on the Chicago trip. The money will be placed in the university student loan fund.

When Food Doesn't Digest

Give the Stomach a Rational Rest by Proper Aid, Not by Harsh Starvation Methods. Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

A sour stomach may indicate an acid condition that calls for an alkaline effect.

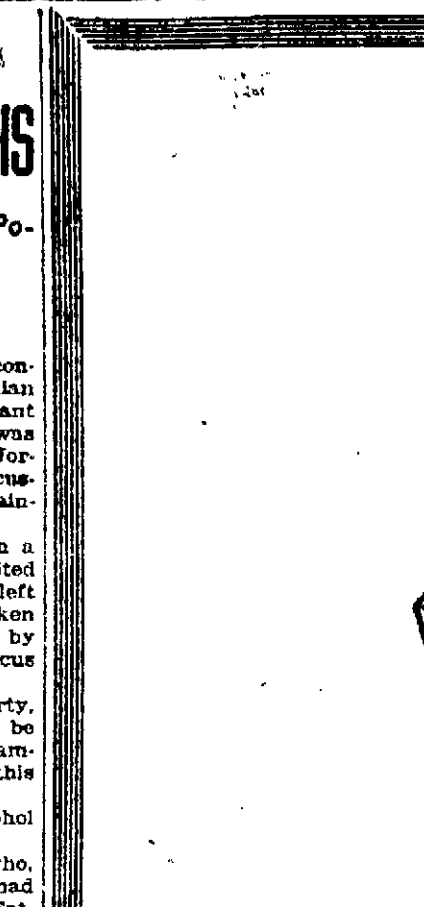

This you will get from one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after a meal. Sour risings, gasiness, a heavy bloated feeling and such distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia are usually only temporary. And yet they may lead to serious disorder. The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals reflects to a high degree the intelligent selection of preventive measures.

One cannot always select or inspect the quality of food to be eaten nor its method or manner of preparation. But it is possible to avoid the acidity that is so often the result. And it is a far better plan to eat without worry over what may happen, than to starve for fear it will happen. Many physicians recommend these tablets for stomach distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia.

They are sold by all druggists everywhere at 60 cents a box.

"Thank You, Red Cross!"

Say 92,000 Families

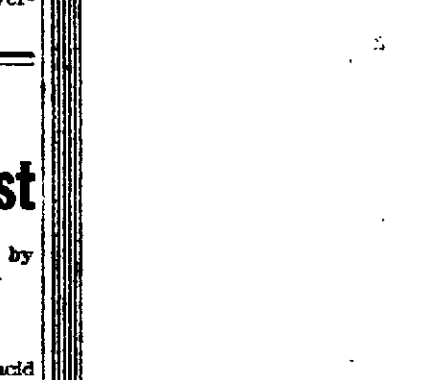

Over 92,000 families are healthier and happier today, thanks to the Greatest Mother in the World—the Red Cross.

Last year alone 92,000 women learned something even more essential than the cure of disease. They learned how to prevent disease.

The Red Cross, through its nation-wide organization, taught them simple truths for preserving their families' health; taught them what food is best for their families' health; taught them how to care for the sick, saving babies and adults the country across.

There remain hundreds of thousands of families, too poor to learn elsewhere, who remain uninstructed. The Red Cross must shoulder the task of teaching them. The work must go on.

But it can't go on without your support. The work is costly, but—saving lives is a greater satisfaction than saving money. Your membership dollar does its part to save a life. Join the Red Cross or renew your membership during the

Farmers Interested In Plan For Memorial Building Here

H. M. Culbertson Avers Proposed Building Should Include Auditorium.

A number of people in Appleton and other parts of the country are showing interest in the community memorial building idea. The plans are not in definite shape, but some thought is given to what it should contain. A letter from H. M. Culbertson, Medina, to the chamber of commerce, shows how interested some of the residents of the county are. The letter reads:

"I notice in the paper some movement is on relating to a community building in Appleton. I think it is a grand movement providing it goes far enough in its purpose. Something was stated to the effect that no auditorium would be needed. I am positive that would be a serious mistake for that is about the greatest of all needs. — Wants Assembly Room. "A public assembly room, free for use, is the very thing needed, so that any legitimate purpose can be progressed at no expense for meeting place, and that the meeting can be arranged by getting the date suitably long in advance to hold its place. "There is nothing that advances intelligence more rapidly than the assembling of the public frequently, and the mingling of persons and thought, and to make this a rapid transit country in the various activities, people must assemble frequently to cultivate broadness, and there it will be accomplished.

"Now it costs so much to secure a meeting place that this is not practiced. No matter how much more the assembly room of 400 seats might increase the cost, it would be found to be of just that much more worth.

"I would oppose any such investment unless an auditorium be a principal part of the building. (My opinion.)"

The latest data in the hands of Secretary Corbett of the chamber of commerce shows that Mr. Culbertson's suggestion had been included in the tentative plans. The idea was not to establish a memorial auditorium as some cities have done, but to build a community building which would have an auditorium capable of seating about 350 people.

The present intention of the chamber of commerce is to have in the building a public waiting room, women's rest room, men's wash room, women's wash room, chamber's general office, information bureau and public check room, credit rating bureau office, managing secretary's office, work and stock room (to be used by all organizations occupying the building), two committee rooms large enough for 25 people, general assembly room to hold 350 people.

Scouts Want Office. The Appleton Boy Scout Council would probably have an outer office, committee room and general office. The Woman's Club would want fairly large quarters somewhat similar to the present location at the Appleton hotel. The One's Johnson post of the American Legion would possibly have one office room. The Red Cross has part of its program of county activities to work out and is undecided about its quarters, but would probably have an outer office, one of two rooms for its health center, and office for the county Red Cross secretary.

The city must provide a public comfort station to comply with the state health laws, and the merchants feel

The chemist and engineer were read and placed on file. The chemist also reported on his recent trip to the bacteriologist convention at Iowa City, Iowa.

The pumping station report showed that 48,920,000 gallons of water were pumped during the month of October. The engine was operated 507 hours and the total number of gallons of fuel oil used was 4,154. The bacterial removal efficiency of the plant for the entire month was 98.8 per cent.

that a public rest and parcel checking room would be a decided stimulus to trade. The organizations to be housed in the building already have offices elsewhere and pay monthly rentals which would pay for the maintenance of the proposed structure. It is therefore believed by many that the civic interests of the county would be advanced materially by having a building whose whole purpose and personnel would be embodied in community service.

SUPERVISORY TEACHERS WILL MEET IN APPLETON

The supervising teachers of north eastern Wisconsin will meet in conference at the courthouse in Appleton, Nov. 29 and 30. The first session will convene at 1:30 p. m., Monday, Nov. 29.

The general theme of the conference will be, "The Use of Standard Tests in Promoting Children in the Elementary School." A member from the state department will be invited to take part in the program which will be largely informal and non-technical.

A conference dinner at the Y. M. C. A. will be a feature Monday evening. Miss Frances Herald will relate some of her experiences on her recent trip to Europe at that time.

AGED WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD, SITTING IN CHAIR

Watertown—Sitting in her favorite rocking chair and with her hands peacefully folded, Mrs. Virginia Goodhout, 70, was found dead by neighbors who became alarmed when the aged woman was not seen about her home at Farmington for several days. A physician pronounced the cause of death to have been heart failure. When the neighbors approached the house, Mrs. Goodhout was seen sitting in her chair and when she did not respond to calls and knocking at the window, the house was entered and she was found dead.

FORD TURNS TURTLE AT FOOT OF PEARL ST. HILL

The intersection of Pearl and Prospect streets was the scene of an automobile accident shortly before noon Tuesday. While two women and a man whose names were not learned were descending Pearl street in a Ford car, the driver lost control of the auto when the mechanism refused to work and turned the car up Prospect street to avoid the heavy traffic at the foot of the hill. The turn was so short and the momentum so great that the car turned over, smashing the windshield. Aside from a few slight bruises and cuts the occupants escaped injury.

COMPANY OUSTED AFTER FIFTEEN YEAR BATTLE

Madison—After fifteen years of effort on the part of the state, negotiations have been completed to take the American Refractories Co., operating the quarry in the state park at Devil's Lake out of the park limits. The company is to remove its equipment on or before Jan. 1, 1922. The state paid the company $75,000 for its 65 acres of property at Devil's Lake. All buildings and improvements go to the state. In addition to the cash payment, 57 acres outside the park limits is conveyed to the company.

BIGGEST PROBLEM IS TO PAY FOR COAL

Ellis Says Traction Company Can Get Fuel If It Can Raise the Money.

"The trouble with us is not so much a shortage of coal as it is to pay for what we have on hand and what we have been using," said A. K. Ellis, general manager of the Wisconsin Traction Light, Heat and Power company when questioned Tuesday as to his company's coal situation.

"On account of the increased cost of operating the power plant it was necessary for me to give a note today to our transportation company for the hauling of coal and others have been given for the purchase price of coal," said Mr. Ellis.

Many public utilities throughout the state are facing the winter with a shortage of coal. Mr. Ellis stated that his company has about a ninety days' supply on hand which accumulated during the navigation season.

"Last month we received 10,000 tons of coal and used approximately 5,000 tons," said Mr. Ellis, "and it cost us $86,000. While navigation is not officially closed, the tugs and barges can no longer get thru the ice in the canals so that from now on we must depend on rail shipments."

Mr. Ellis said that his company is compelled to use Illinois coal and that the quality is inferior to the eastern coal that his company is accustomed to using, while the price is much higher.

"Our shipments by rail and water this summer amounted to 40,000 tons," said Mr. Ellis. "Shipments by rail are slower than by water, it frequently requiring from five to seven days to get a carload from Milwaukee."

Mr. Ellis said that one of the problems that public utilities are up against is that the state allows them only 7 per cent on their investment, while they are required to pay from 7 to 8 per cent on borrowed money.

HORSE CRASHES INTO NURSE'S AUTOMOBILE

A serious accident was narrowly averted on College avenue opposite the former Commercial hotel yard late Monday afternoon when a horse ridden by a young man dashed out of the yard into the sedan driven by Miss Nienhaus, who was taking a patient to a physician's office. The occupants of the sedan escaped injury, as well as the rider of the animal by the presence of mind of the driver in promptly stopping the car, which was only slightly damaged.

Considerable assistance was rendered the Red Cross community show Saturday by the boy scouts. C. OF C. BOOSTS FORUM MEETING

Welcome Idea of City Planning Presentation by Local Men Next Sunday.

Members of the chamber of commerce are showing keen interest in the People's Forum meeting of next Sunday evening at which city planning will be presented by Prof. O. P. Fairfield of Lawrence college and Judson G. Rosebush.

City planning was adopted by the chamber as one of its major activities for this year and is already the object of considerable study. It is also included in the list of topics for the membership meetings of the chamber.

The first step by the chamber of commerce to present the subject officially will be the appearance here within a few weeks of Dr. John Nolen, Cambridge, Mass. The chamber welcomes the action of the officials of the People's Forum in making city planning one of its topics, as it will be brought to the attention of the public much sooner in this way and will pave way for greater interest in Dr. Nolen's appearance here.

"I hope everybody in Appleton will turn out for the forum meeting Sunday night," said Secretary Corbett. "It is a subject that will concern everybody more or less, and each citizen ought to take it upon himself as a duty to learn exactly what city planning is. It is one of the most modern phases of city development and it will be worth while to hear what these Appleton men have to say about it."

Need $600 More. The committee in charge of raising $5,000 for the Boy Scouts which will carry them to the month of February reports that it is within $600 of going over the top and that it does not expect to have much trouble in securing the remaining amount.

Walter Schultz, an ex-service man who recently submitted to an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital, is making good progress and expects to be about again soon.

Crude Oil and the Automobile

IN 1913 (when there were 1,009,000 automobiles in the United States) oil producers drilled about 25,000 wells. The average paid for crude was 85c per barrel.

In 1914 producers had a little discouragement. The price for crude oil fell off to 81c average, and they drilled only 23,000 wells. These wells, however, proved exceptionally prolific and crude prices dropped to an average of 64c a barrel (40c in the Mid-Continent field). As a consequence of the over-production, the bottom dropped out of the gasoline market and low prices prevailed.

The low prices of crude made exploration of new fields unprofitable, and in 1915 only 14,000 wells were drilled. This halt in production enabled demand to creep up on supply, and caused crude to advance until it reached $1.10 per barrel.

Encouraged by the better prices offered, producers put down 24,000 wells in 1916. The unprecedented demand aroused by the war caused petroleum prices to soar, and, notwithstanding the activities in the producing field, prices have continued to advance because demand exceeded supply.

In August, 1920, the number of new oil wells brought in for that month alone was 3,513—the highest oil production mark in the history of the United States. Yet so great was demand that Mid-Continent crude stood firm at $3.50, and Pennsylvania crude at $6.10 per barrel, the present prevailing prices.

The market price for crude is not apt to go off appreciably while demand continues to increase as during 1920.

Since 1913 the number of motor vehicles in the United States has increased approximately 7,459,607, and the forecast for 1921 is 10 million motor vehicles in the United States.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is straining every fibre and anew of its highly specialized organization to increase the yield of gasoline from crude petroleum.

How well it is succeeding is indicated by the fact that an eminent authority states that the Burton process, originating in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has produced 40 million barrels of gasoline from heavy distillates, and has thus saved approximately 150 million barrels of crude oil that would otherwise have been necessary to produce an equivalent amount of gasoline.

FANS WILL FOLLOW TEAM TO GREEN BAY

Appleton Will Not Lack Support From Sidelines in Game on Saturday.

With the announcement that Appleton high school will clash with East Green Bay on the latter's home grid-iron next Saturday in a game which will have an important bearing on the state high school championship, Appleton football fans are showing a renewed interest in the race. The impending battle was the subject of discussion in all places where young men and older men who have young ideas congregated.

In all probability nearly 500 Appleton people will see the battle. Practically the entire student body of the high school will accompany the team. Hundreds of fans are organizing automobile parties, insuring adequate support from the sidelines when the two teams meet. The north bleachers in Hagemeyer park, where the game is to be played, has been reserved for the Appleton delegation.

Coach Vincent knows that his team will face its greatest test in the Bay city. Green Bay has defeated all the teams which Appleton has won from, some of them by decisive scores, and also has the advantage of playing on its home grounds. It has one of the best drop kickers in the state and several of the men are said to be excellent college material.

All indications point to a battle worth going a long way to see. The Appleton team is in excellent condition and reports from Green Bay indicate that the home crew will send its strongest line-up into the fray.

Government experts, investigating rumors of extensive deposits of iron ore in northwestern Australia, have reported at least 97,000,000 tons in sight above sea-level, of exceptional quality.

Little has been said about basketball thus far, but it is believed there will be a sufficient number of applicants for places to make up several teams, assuring the regulars plenty of practice.

Among the men who are said to be material for a cage team are Smith, Kubitz, Pasing, Whoder, Wheeler, Sorenson and Doering of the football team. There are also a number of other men in the college who did not try out for football but are said to be excellent material for soccer.

The basketball schedule has not been arranged but it is planned to play games with all the Little Five teams and with several strong squads outside of the conference.

LANDIS SAYS RESULTS WILL BE HIS PLATFORM

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Achievement—not words, will be the platform of Federal Judge K. M. Landis, baseball's newest ruler.

Landis, discussing plans for baseball's future, said Chicago was to be the messia for baseball pilgrims. He will make his headquarters here and squabbles which may arise will be brought to Chicago for him to decide.

"While I was making my decision as to whether I would accept the baseball offer, men came to me and said by all means take it. Leave the bench. You have earned it," Landis said.

"There seems to be a great concern in some minds about my ability to handle both jobs. They are not afraid I won't do my work. They are afraid I will do my work."

AERIAL GAME MAY DEFEAT MAROONS

Badgers Expected to Launch Air Attack Against Stagg's Team.

Chicago.—The forward pass has caused more upsets of the dope in western football this fall than have occurred in many seasons.

The latest upheaval is to be found in the Wisconsin-Illinois game at Madison on Saturday.

Scheduled to win and continue on their path to another championship, the Illinois came a cropper to the short and snappy passing game that the Badgers uncorked when the contest was thought to be safely under the Zuppke belt, thanks to Ralph Fletcher's educated toe.

The Wisconsin-Illinois game also served to demonstrate the value of the passing game, played conservatively. The Badger's didn't attempt any long passes to speak of. Needing a few yards, they used a short pass time after time. While the Illini were attempting to hurl the ball half the length of the field, in a desperate attempt to score the points needed to win.

Pass Successfully
In two marches to a touchdown, the Badgers passed successfully for seven to twenty yards. It was new stuff to their opponents, who were expecting long passes and playing the wings far and wide.

The development of this game by Wisconsin will make them a serious contender for the Big Ten championship if Illinois can successfully turn on Ohio next Saturday, which is an even bet. Ohio has not suffered a defeat yet and should be in great shape for the Illini encounter.

In the Iowa-Minnesota game, the passing of Lenn Devine and Belding was a big factor in the overwhelming victory for Iowa, while a brilliant passing game by Indiana almost overcame the highest touted Notre Dame squad. Chicago, with no passing combination to speak of, could not penetrate the Michigan line, while the Wolverine's were successful enough with the air game to score their first encounter.

GREEN BAY RESORT KEEPER IS FREED

Woman Sentenced to Prison Will Be Released on Parole for Two Years.

Green Bay—Ruby Clark, convicted keeper of a disorderly house, who two weeks ago went to Waupun to start a sentence of a year, will be released as soon as a deputy sheriff reaches the state prison with an order from Judge Monahan of municipal court.

The woman gains her freedom as a result of the trials, on Monday, of Minnie Carrington and Helen Gray, charged with similar offenses. The latter two were sentenced to two year terms in the state prison but the sentences were suspended on their pledge of good behavior.

The hearings on Monday proved the most sensational court case of years. A. B. Fontaine, attorney for the women appealed to Judge Monahan to suspend the sentences on the ground that the women were not entirely responsible.

He declared that the object of the public health officers who directed the recent sensational raids here were being attained in stamping out the disorderly houses existing here and further stated that the health authorities had no desire to imprison the women.

When sentence was suspended it was announced that they, together with Ruby Clark, would be placed under the jurisdiction of the state board of control for the period of their sentences.

In taking action on the Clark case, Judge Monahan announced that he wanted to be fair in the matter, and that as the offenses were similar the Clark women should not suffer alone.

INITIATE BLAINE INTO HIS NEW JOB

Governor-Elect Gets First Experience as Chief Executive at Meeting.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—Although he will not be sworn in as the executive of the state until January 3, six weeks from next Monday, Governor-Elect John J. Blaine will in one case assume the duties of that office for one day tomorrow.

He will sit with the members of the State Board of Education during their session when the various state educational institutions will present their budgets for the coming biennium for consideration.

The governor is ex-officio a member of the State Board of Education. Governor Phillip will attend the session Thursday, but as his term of office expires before the budgets can be presented to the legislature, it was but fair to Gov-Elect Blaine that he be invited to sit with the Board when the Regents of the University and Normal, the state superintendent and the state Board of Vocational Education and trustees of the Mining School present their budgets and argue for their adoption. Mr. Blaine will have to fully inform himself on the conditions in each individual case and then form his own opinion and determine the policy he will pursue in their regard after he becomes the chief executive of the state.

Although no figures have as yet been announced, it is a foregone conclusion that each institution will ask for a greatly increased appropriation for the next biennium to meet the conditions which are confronting it. It is believed in some cases the budget to be submitted to the Board of Education will be almost double that of two years ago. It is likely the Board will devote the entire day Thursday to listening to the arguments for the budgets and then adjourn for a week or two while the matter is being thoroughly gone over and worked out by the secretary, Major E. A. Fitzpatrick, who will then present a report on each institution to the Board.

The members of the State Board of Education, who will attend the session tomorrow are: Herman Grothphorst, Baraboo, president; Edward J. Dempsey, Oshkosh, vice-president, representing the Normal Regents; Gov. E. L. Phillip, ex-officio; State Supt. C. P. Cary, ex-officio; Theodore M. Hammond, Milwaukee, representing the University regents; John H. McQuaid, Milwaukee representing the state Vocational Board; W. R. Graves, Prairie du Chien, Charles L. Hill, Rosendale, Miss Ellen C. Sabin, Milwaukee and Frank J. Sensenbrenner, Neenah.

URGES GOVERNMENT TO PAY MILLIONS TO ROADS

Green Bay.—The government should pay the $400,000,000 due the railroads and give the transportation systems a chance to rebuild. This is the opinion of the Green Bay Association of Commerce members who met in special session and drafted a resolution to that effect for the perusal of President Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury Houston.

The resolution declared that in some instances the railroads have been forced to lay off shopmen because there was not enough money in their treasuries to meet the payroll.

Albert Niesuls of Green Bay, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Nagreen, 693 College Ave.

Walter Renn of Kaukauna, was a visitor in Appleton Monday.

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

An Essex Advantage That All Acclaim

The distinction of performance which rates the moderate-priced Essex among the fine cars of the world is by no means confined to its greater speed, accelerations and hill-climbing ability.

Official proofs remove its supremacy in those qualities from debate. No car of its motor size ever matched them. Some of its marks were never equalled by any car, regardless of size, price or type.

Thus Essex Takes Rank With the Greatest Cars

Yet if one quality, more than another, causes men to link Essex in merit with the costly cars, it is its ease of motion, and elastic smoothness in action, which have no counterpart among light cars.

The satisfaction and enthusiasm of nearly 50,000 owners contents us to leave the judgment of the Essex in their hands.
